Disclaimer: Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine does not own, operate or specifically endorse any property being distributed here. These are third party vendors who presented their materials for distribution and all responsibilities and liabilities are solely to these parties.

For additional housing available after Second Look, please check Stritch's List (<https://www.facebook.com/groups/119433342783068/>) for the most up to date list of available housing. If you're interested in finding a roommate, please fill out this form: https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1vO3pEMHfJ_nHmDjYChmH-NX8rCorUzn-NVSZE6MOQU/edit#gid=0.

An important reminder: Please note that campus parking is daily parking only. Parking services does not allow cars to be left overnight or to be stored for extended periods during breaks. If you own a vehicle, please consider this when choosing housing. An off-street parking spot at your residence would be best. Additionally, many towns have restrictions on overnight street parking or street parking during certain days of the week for cleaning. During winter there are several towns with complete bans on street parking during certain months or when snow is 2" or more.

Berwyn, IL

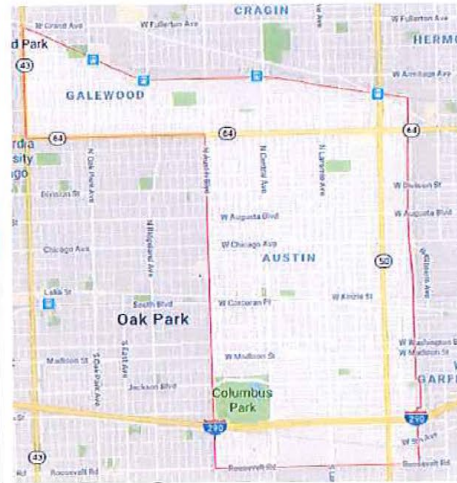

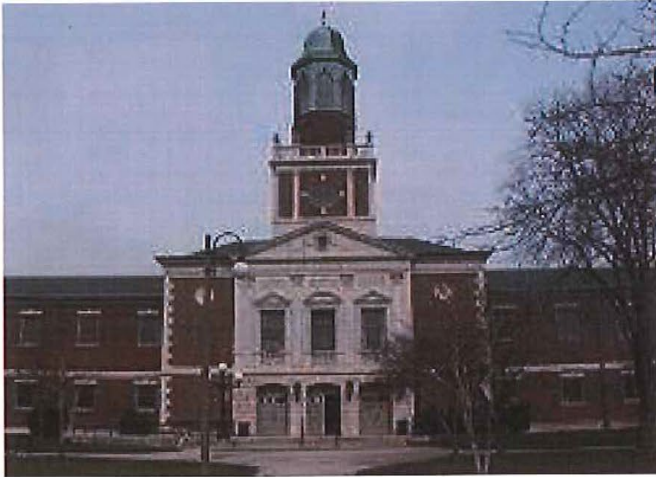

Today, Berwyn has the most significant collection of Chicago-style bungalows in the nation. Traditionally, Berwyn Bungalows are one-story buildings with basement and attic, two to three bedrooms, and a living and dining room. Decorative details included oak woodwork and stained glass windows. The finances of the owner at the time they were built determined the specific design of the windows, roofs, and interiors. These bungalows, built between the 1920's through the 1940's, range in style from smaller one or one-and-a-half story units to the larger, "super" bungalows, with two full stories, glazed brick exteriors and tile roofs -- some in flashy colors like blue, blue-green or multicolor.

Families with Czech and Bohemian roots, together with many Italian-Americans, Greeks, Lithuanians, Poles, Yugoslavians and Ukrainians, have been joined in recent years by Hispanics, African and Asian Americans who now call Berwyn home. As Berwyn moves into the 21st century, its traditionally hard-working, middle-class, mostly blue collar families, who were admitted conservative in their outlook, are joined by young, professional families and a growing population of gay and lesbian residents.

Now, just as in those early times, Berwynites are justly proud of "Beautiful Berwyn." With its tree-lined streets, sturdy brick bungalows, and Victorian "painted ladies," Berwyn continues to be a stable, safe, and diverse community. With the continuing efforts of its homeowners, business community, civic organizations, and city government, Berwyn looks forward to its "second century" as it celebrates its rich and varied past.

Chicago, IL Austin Neighborhood

Austin was created in 1865, when developer Henry Austin purchased 470 acres for a temperance settlement named "Austinville". Austin's intentions for the settlement were clear: home ownership, public amenities such as tree-lined parkways, and gracious living. The village had nearly 1,000 residents by 1874, owing largely to steadily improving suburban railroad service. With over 4,000 residents by the 1890s, Austin was the largest settlement in Cicero township. In 1899, Austin was voted out of the township and into Chicago by residents of other parts of the township. Austin's residents sought to maintain an independent identity after annexation. An ambitious illustration was the 1929 construction of Austin Town Hall, modeled on Philadelphia's Independence Hall.

Dense housing development almost completely supplanted the village landscape of large frame homes in the early twentieth century: north Austin sprouted brick two-flats, small frame houses, and the ubiquitous brick story-and-a-half bungalow; in south Austin, rowhouses, sizable corner apartment blocks, and a multitude of brick three-flats and courtyard apartment buildings flourished. Despite the massive scale change, the nineteenth-century village residential core is still visible in the Midway Park area north of Central and Lake, a designated National Register historic district (1985). This neighborhood boasts stately neoclassical and Queen Anne-style homes, many designed by architect Frederick Schock, as well as several structures by Frank Lloyd Wright and his students.

Austin's crown jewel was Columbus Park (1920). Designed in a prairie mode by renowned landscape architect Jens Jensen, the park featured a lagoon, golf course, athletic fields and a pool, as well as winding paths and an imposing refectory overlooking the lagoon. Assaulted by expressway construction in the 1960s, the park was extensively restored in 1992.

Lyons, IL

Incorporated in 1888, Lyons is steeped in even earlier historical roots. In 1673, French explorer, Louis Joliet, and Jesuit missionary, Father Pierre Marquette, left Green Bay, Wisconsin by canoe in search of a western passage to the Pacific. As they traveled into the Spanish-controlled area of Louisiana, they realized that the mighty Mississippi drained into the already well-known Gulf of Mexico. With winter approaching, they headed north as quickly as possible. To save time, the Pottawatomie Indians that were with them encouraged a change in the course to the Illinois River. This shortcut led to the Des Plaines River and caused these travelers to discover "Le Portage." This half mile wide area of land connecting the Chicago River and the Des Plaines River, over which they could carry their canoes and supplies, would soon be their claim to fame. Later known as the Chicago Portage, this small area became the "Gateway to the West," and was used by thousands of early settlers and traders traveling both east and west. The discovery of "Le Portage" was the impetus that led to Chicago becoming a center for the world trade.

Louis Joliet conceived the idea of constructing a canal to connect the two waterways. This idea was to become a reality 200 years later with the opening of the Illinois—Michigan Canal. Today, a statue stands in Lyons at the Chicago Portage National Historic Site just north of Interstate 55 along Harlem Avenue, commemorating this historic National Heritage Corridor which stretches southwest through LaSalle, Illinois.

Hofmann Tower is one of the most impressive historical sites in the suburban area. This eight-story castle-like concrete structure was built in 1908 by George Hofmann, Jr. The tower was the centerpiece of a large recreational area that included powered boat rides, canoeing, picnicking, dancing and orchestral concerts plus a large beer garden. For years, Hofmann Tower was the tallest building west of the Chicago's Loop and thrilled thousands of visitors with a breathtaking view of Chicago and the surrounding area.

Westchester, IL

The area now known as Westchester was occupied by German farmers dating back to the mid-19th century. Samuel Insull purchased the land in 1924 with plans to recreate an English style town. As a result, the town's name and the majority of its street names are of English origin.

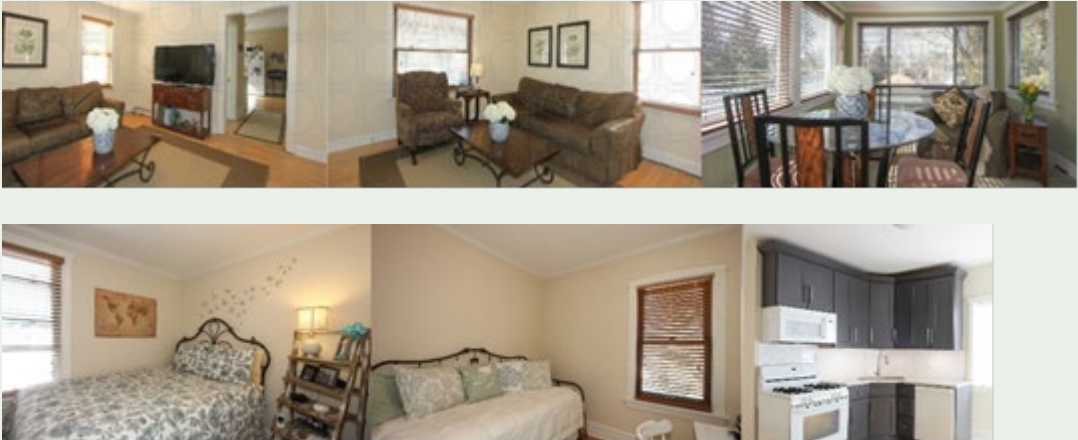

The Great Depression slowed construction in the ensuing decade, although the population continued to grow, largely aided by the presence of the western terminal of Chicago's rapid transit line. The extension of the line was removed in 1951. However, the Eisenhower Interstate System's creation in 1956 led to the construction of nearby expressways I-290 and I-294, providing residents with convenient travel.

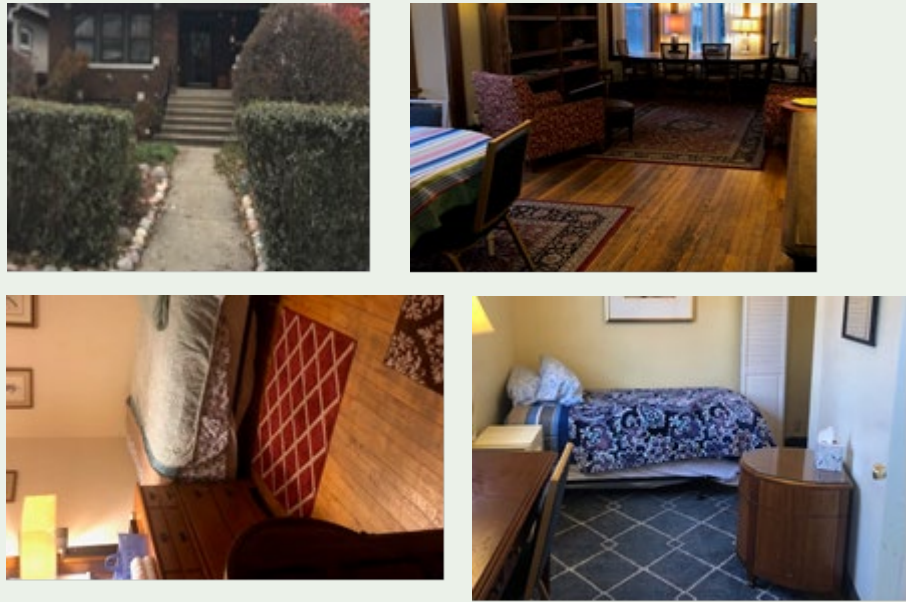

Expansion has consumed nearly all open land within the village, save for the 85-acre Wolf Road Prairie.

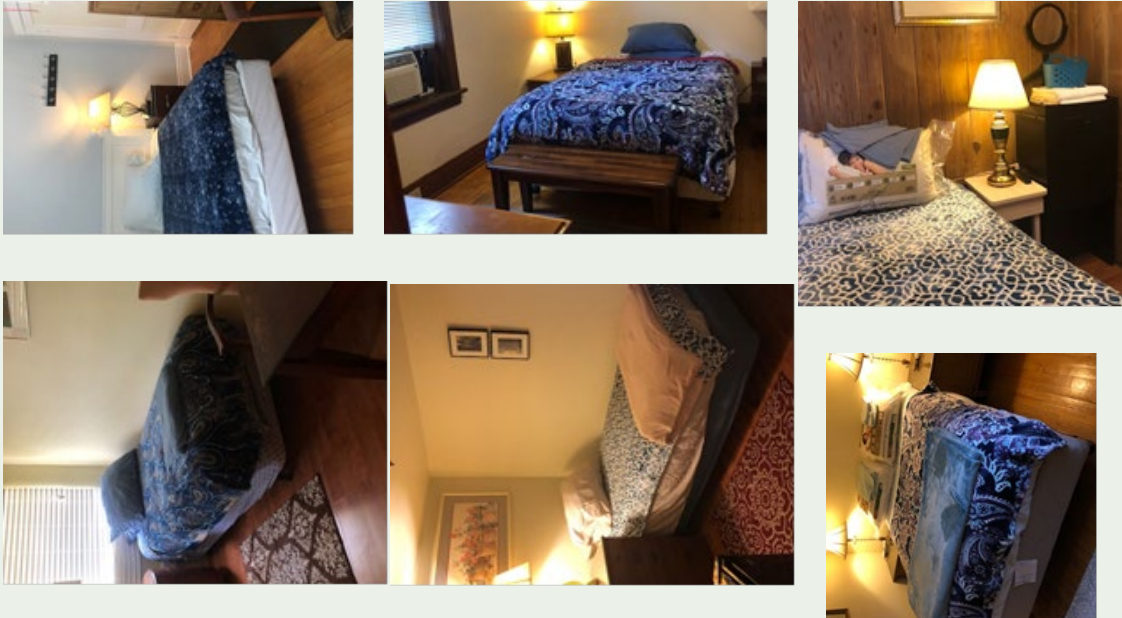

Located approximately 4 miles from SSOM.

The Dr. Eva Bading Community House

Living in Service and Solidarity

Mission

The Bading House is an intentional community of students who desire to be part of the living fabric of the Maywood community. Rather than remaining visitors or passers-by, we are committed to living in Maywood and getting to know its members as our neighbors. We are united in our passion for service and social justice, both in Maywood and beyond, and find that living out our vocations in the context of community provides us with support, inspiration, and encouragement in our work. We are inspired by the Jesuit value of living as men and women for others and feel that Maywood is a fertile environment for learning to serve our future patients well.

History

Four Stritch students founded the Bading House during the 2007-2008 school year. These students chose to live in solidarity with Maywood residents in order to better understand the community's challenges, partner with the community through service, and raise awareness of the needs of the underserved. The house has traditionally aimed to have each graduating class represented by at least one member of the house. This has enabled us to exchange viewpoints between students at various points in their medical training and to provide support, advice, and encouragement for students across classes.

What Are We Doing?

Specific projects develop based on each student's interests and involvement. We are currently involved with Maywood Fine Arts, the Maywood Youth Mentoring, and other programs. An important goal of our house has been to increase student presence and involvement in Maywood. To this end, we host the annual Center for Community and Global Health (CCGH) Day of Service, CCGH Global Health Equity Dinners, several Ministry events, and occasional social events for students. We also host monthly dinners with Loyola faculty to learn about their backgrounds and their work in the community. Most of our house members participate in Ignatian Service Immersion programs or the longer Global Fieldwork Experience. This year, we find ourselves growing in community through shared time, spirituality nights, and weekly meals, but each year the community's structure reflects the unique needs and desires of its current members. We welcome people of all backgrounds to join us in building community in the coming year.

Join Us!

This is a great community, and we would love to welcome you into it. Please contact Ermelinda Ndoka (endoka@luc.edu) or Kellie Steele (ksteele@luc.edu) for more information.

You can also read about the house and the bios of the current residents here:

Garden level apartment in a 3 story apartment full of Stritch medical students' Includes: tandem parking space in the back of the apartment, water, heat, trash, washer and dryer in the back of apartment (on our level - so that's nice) - AC window unit in the common room - doesn't get too hot as we are in the basement - Apartment is 8 minutes from Stritch. Available room: walk-in closets, large enough to fit queen size bed, desk, dresser, sewing station, and more. See photos 2-4. You must love plants, because I have a mini jungle - Must be OK with talking/hearing about Black lives matter issues and social justice issues because I founded the White Coats for Black Lives chapter at Stritch and due to COVID have meetings and events at home.

Rent: $650/month

Electric (comED is normally $30-40/month) - we split

Internet is $9.95/month - we split

Renters insurance is $18.76/month - we split

34 y/o Black female, current second year medical student, family oriented, down to earth, brave, meditator, yogi, and a runner. I enjoy cooking and baking. To relax, I enjoy watching movies, sitcoms, documentaries, reading, gardening, taking baths and hanging out with friends. I have a mini pool, I enjoy using in the backyard during the summer. I would love to share my space with someone who also enjoys these things. Drinking tequila sunrise and soaking up the sun during the summer with a new roommie would be a lot of fun!

Happy to show you the place in-person. Email me at jsimpson6@luc.edu if you want to see a video of the available room and/or are interested. Thanks and happy apartment hunting!

Information : My name is Greg Macaluso (Stritch '04) and I wanted to reach out as I am a local physician (I also work at McNeal aside from Advocate Christ) because I recently acquired a property in Berwyn that had previously been rented to residents and medical students. The community living is something myself and my three roommates greatly enjoyed living in Oak Park during medical school. I wanted to make this available to students and residents for this reason and at a reasonable price.

The property is located just 3.5 miles from Stritch campus.

There are 2 units available: links below
UNIT 1 is a 2 bedroom / 1 bath 1250.00
UNIT 2 is a 3 bedroom / 1 bath 1375.00
2 garage parking spots for 75.00 each
